

Working together to protect our clients, colleagues, team and community

As all members of the senior care community we have taken the spread of COVID-19 seriously. We have worked with our clients and colleagues to ensure our existing clients are safe and our colleagues are doing all they can to reduce the spread of Covid-19. While the situation is dynamic, below is a non-exhaustive list of what Athena is doing to keep our clients, colleagues, team mates, and community healthy.

1. Our team members are working remotely and will continue to do so while this global crisis remains an issue.
2. Our client's are monitored daily if they reside in a senior living facility by the staff at that facility and we check-in with care staff weekly.
3. Our team members who will begin visiting clients are being tested for Covid-19 to ensure we limit the spread.
4. Our office is open and able to assist all clients, colleagues and our community at large because we understand now is not the time to decrease services.
5. We are able to meet virtually and will continue this practice.
6. We are able to set-up virtual meetings for our clients and their family/friends, in most cases. We understand isolation is another side-effect of this pandemic and we are going to keep in touch with all of our clients and their families to limit the risk of social isolation.
7. We are able to meet face-to-face if warranted and in those instances we have appropriate PPE and will remain 6 feet apart.
8. Our offices are cleaned weekly with CDC approved solutions.
9. All workshops will continue to be held but will be virtual meetings to ensure important groups can meet safely during this time.
